

Who benefits from higher standards
in the grocery industry?

Who benefits from higher standards in the grocery industry?

Everyone does!

Grocery employers benefit because happy employees make for happy customers.

Grocery workers benefit because they can pay their bills and raise their families without having to resort to public assistance.

Customers benefit because they are served by proud employees who work in healthy and safe environments.

Children benefit because they have good health care that their parents can afford.

Communities benefit because grocery workers are able to pay taxes that support schools, police, fire and other vital public services.

We'll keep you informed of ongoing discussions with supermarket companies to maintain and improve standards for their employees.

We will report to you as developments occur.

In the meantime, you can help by visiting

YourBreadandButter.com

and completing the online survey.

Don't forget to enter our online contest.

You can win $100 worth of groceries!

